Vine T. Marks

What was your very first recollection? I remember my mom carrying me toward this tall white building, and my Dad following behind after parking the car. I think it was a '36 Ford, the kind with the trunk on the back. I remember the trunk because that's where they sometimes put me. Everybody was singing and it was pretty loud, so I decided not to cry because they wouldn't hear me anyway. When the singing stopped and, my Mom and Dad stepped into the aisle and took me toward the front where this man was standing, at least I thought it was a man, maybe it was a woman as it wore a very long white dress and it must have had a chill because it was wearing a long scarf around its neck, kinda fancy too because it had long fringes on it. He or she talked for a while and then my Mom handed me over to this person, and when I looked up I knew he was a man because there was hair sticking out of his nose, and when he started to talk, he had brown teeth. Next! He lowered my head down by a tub of water. He had there and started to splash me with water! I tho't, he's trying to drown me! What did I ever do to him?! I let out a yell and he gave me back to my Mom, and from that day on I was called

Vine T. Marks

The first 8-9 years of Vine's life were spent on the Lake Traverse Reservation. His folks worked for the government and they moved to Pierre, SD and worked at the Pierre Indian School. When he was 15 years old he got a summer job building grain storage bins, and found he was making more money than his Dad, so he never went back to school, but just worked because the money was more enjoyable than school. At 17 he joined the Army, trained as intermediate speed radio operator, learned Morse code, and was cleared for "secret". Spent 2 1/2 years in Germany, while there was selected to the Battalion Commanders personal operator so where the Colonel went, he went, and saw most of Germany from the back of the Colonel's jeep. After honorable discharge, he worked construction trades.

He got a job with the Indian Health Service in 1963 as plumber, then backhoe operator, and because of his extensive knowledge of different construction trades, was promoted to Construction Inspector. Next, Construction Representative for the HIS and project manager and overseer of many construction projects on many different reservations.

He retired from the Federal Government in 1997, stayed home for 1 week and was hired by the Sisseton-Wahpeton Tribe to run the Water Treatment Plant and the Wastewater Treatment Plant at the Dakota Magic Casino, and to teach people to become water and waste water operators. Project manager to build the new Hotel and Casino. Converted the original casino building into the present day convention center, built a C-store and RV park, then was assigned to build an 18 hole golf course, with a reverse 9, making it a 27 hole course.

Vine next worked for the Tribal Utility Commission and assisted in getting a rural water system for the reservation. Then he actually stayed home for about a month, but during that month went to the World Tournament in Bakersfield, CA. and toured the rest of the time. Big Bear Mountain, Giant sequoia trees, fisherman's wharf, Golden Gate Bridge, Redwood Forest, Yosemite Park, Columbia River Valley, and even drove through a forest fire west of Missoula, MT. with them closing the highway right behind us. After a month on the road, he went to work for a local construction Co, and laid out all of the water and sewer lines for the Tribes Health Facility and adjoining 62 unit housing complex and worked there for about 1 1/2 years.

Vine is consulting with the Tribe to manage the construction of a new Wastewater Treatment Plant for the Dakota Magic Casino.

He is also working on the new Water Treatment Plant, Water Tower, and an additional well. All of this can be monitored from the computers located in both Plants offices tied to a scada system which will call the operator at home if there is an alarm, then can be acknowledged from a laptop rather than driving all the way to the Plant. At the present time he is completing seven new community centers, one for each of the seven tribal Districts.

Vine married and from that raised three girls and two boys, then divorced. He then snagged a snazzy woman by the name of Etta Jo. They seemed to hit it off pretty good, and decided not to jump into things too hastily, so they decided to practice first, and they practiced, and practiced, then finally one Christmas drove down to Memphis TN. And got married at Elvis Presley's Graceland. Other unusual things they've done includes, riding the ferry across Lake Michigan with their motor home, touring the famous cemetery in Macon GA., riding the train to the top of Sandia Mountains, in Albuquerque, NM. And riding the Big Shot on top of the Stratosphere Casino in Las Vegas.

Every year he and his army buddies try to meet for an annual reunion at a different location. One year they all met at Dakota Magic Casino, another time in Washington DC, and in 2008 they met at the World Tournament in York, PA.

Vine was asked when he got interested in horseshoe pitching?? A lonng time ago. I grew up in Pierre back in the early fifties. My parents both worked for the government at the Pierre Indian School and once or twice a week they all went down to the city park to pitch shoes. Men from town and from the Indian school all pitched together so it must not have been a league, because they let all of us young guys pitch too. One of our neighbor's uncles would walk down from Cheyenne Agency to visit. On time when he was there we all went down to the park for horseshoes and he came along. He was a very tall old Indian man, over six feet tall, he wore leggings and walked with a tall cane, or walking stick. When someone asked him to join in the competition, most of the town folks wouldn't let him. I felt bad about that, but when the pitching competition was over, they asked him to pitch a couple of shoes. He pitched 98 or 99 ringers out of 100 shoes, and then I knew why they wouldn't let him into the game. I have been hooked ever since.

I've pitched shoes while in the army in Germany. I hooked up with a guy from the hills of Virginia and we won the Regimental doubles championship. I had a hard time understanding him talk, but he sure could pitch ringers. After the Army I would pitch in the local powwows but nothing really serious until I met LaMoyne Helgeson and he was trying to start a league in Sisseton, but couldn't get anybody to pitch. There was about 5-6 of us Indian guys there and we would pitch twice a week. There were a couple of guys that were pretty good and we even went down to a couple of tournaments. But soon there was only Helgie, Mickey Renville and myself pitching. We were having tournaments behind the bowling alley for a number of years until Helgie'e passing.

I believe I've been a member of the NHPA since about 1987, and that was when the State split into a sanctioned side and a non-sanctioned side. The majority of the sanctioned tournaments were west river so I just continued pitching in the east river non-sanctioned tournaments. I have been to a total of 17 world tournaments, and I've place in the money 13 times, and won the world in Ainsworth, Neb. and again in Gillette, WY.

In 1999 I was inducted into the Hall of Fame on the non-sanctioned side of the state, and the next day I pitched in the men's state championship class and tied with Robert Johnson, so we had a pitch off for the championship and I won by 1 point. Pretty nice weekend for me. I also won the state championship on the sanctioned side in Pierre in 2002. Another nice weekend.

Congratulations Vine

Underage Drinking

I think it is wrong that people under the age of 21 should drink because it could make them very addicted to it. When they get older they will have problems because it kills brain cells and the less brain cells the worse their health will be. They will have a harder life then they think. It could give them cancer or kill them at a very young age. I also think that nobody should be aloud to drink unless they are at bars. The bars card people, so if they can't buy it at the store, underage drinkers will have a harder time drinking. Underage drinking causes lots of needless accidents and young deaths. You also are breaking the law if you are drinking and are not the age of 21. I choose not to drink. I want to have a healthy, fulfilling life. I do not want to get into trouble by breaking the law or put my health at risk. Underage drinking is not worth it.
